12. MAINTENANCE AND SUPPORT

The first twelve (12) months of maintenance and support are included with the purchase of a Saffron Workgroup license. Dynalivery has no obligation to provide services beyond the end date of a maintenance and support agreement. Renewals are at the discretion of Dynalivery. There are no automatic renewals and there is no grace period of additional or unpaid service availability.

Customers will assign one technical staff member of each project using Saffron Workgroup as a Liaison to Dynalivery for receiving support who will be mutually acceptable to both parties. Liaisons should have at least five (5) years of technical experience, including experience with SDK level programming in the document producer software; SDK level experience in Java, J2EE, .net, or COM; and Network administration. Dynalivery reserves the right to refuse technical support requests until such time that a mutually acceptable liaison is available.

Liaisons will be responsible for initially researching problems using information in Dynalivery's manuals and on its website. When this initial research does not satisfactorily resolve problems, Liaisons will be responsible for accurately documenting requests for support to Dynalivery on electronic mail, according to the specifications on Dynalivery's web site.

To the maximum extent possible, requests for support should document problems in the English language, using non-confidential and minimal sample data/programs, and in sufficient detail so that Dynalivery's staff may independently reproduce and test them in their labs in St. Louis, Missouri.

Limited support beyond electronic mail is available via telephone by appointment.

Training classes (for Saffron Workgroup or complementary tools) and consulting services (project management, requirements analysis, system design, coding standards, tools selection, or hiring) may be available separately from Dynalivery and its partners. They are not part of maintenance and support.

No change, modification or alteration of this Agreement shall be effective unless in writing and signed by both parties.

14. WAIVER

No waiver of any provision of this Agreement or of the rights and obligations of the parties shall be effective unless in writing and signed by the party waiving compliance. Any such waiver shall be effective only in the specific instances and for the specific purpose stated in such writing.
